Comments: I read with great concern, Michael West's article on the AEMC's public meeting in Sydney concerning the approval of the Northern Gas Pipeline (<https://www.michaelwest.com.au/gas-deal-a-massive-transfer-of-wealth-from-gas-customers-to-china-and-singapore/>)

It seems completely counter to the public interest to grant Jemena, a company being investigated for tax avoidance, an exemption under the National Gas Rules.

The consequences of such an exemption sound like potentially a ridiculous impost on Australian gas customers.

I call on you to revoke Jemena's exemption under the National Gas Rules.

It is unacceptable that Jemena's Northern Gas Pipeline is exempt from the framework for arbitration and information disclosure due to a derogation in the National Gas Rules.

Sincerely,
Yung En Chee
