Comments: I am concerned with the effects of smart meters and the radiation they emit which can be harmful to humans. For example, The International Agency for Research on Cancer has classified radiofrequency radiation as a Class 2B carcinogen. Can the consumer be forced to accept a radiofrequency-radiation-emitting smart meter or have their data shared with third parties if they do not give their consent? This is of grave concern to me as I would like to continue to have the choice as to whether I have a smart meter or not. Thank you for listening to my concerns.
